Figure 1. The effect of the concentration of the polymer solution on the morphology of the polymer film. The polymer solution was prepared by dissolving 0.1 g of polymer in 10 mL of solvent. The polymer solution was casted on a glass substrate and dried at 100 °C for 24 h. The polymer film was then characterized by SEM. The images show the morphology of the polymer film at different concentrations of the polymer solution. The concentration of the polymer solution was 0.1 g/10 mL, 0.2 g/10 mL, 0.3 g/10 mL, 0.4 g/10 mL, 0.5 g/10 mL, 0.6 g/10 mL, 0.7 g/10 mL, 0.8 g/10 mL, 0.9 g/10 mL, and 1.0 g/10 mL. The images show that the morphology of the polymer film changes with the concentration of the polymer solution. At low concentrations, the polymer film is smooth. As the concentration increases, the polymer film becomes rougher and more porous. The images also show that the morphology of the polymer film changes with the drying temperature. The images show that the morphology of the polymer film is more porous at higher drying temperatures.

(on the recto the dedication to Edward Bierstadt), two blank leaves at the beginning and two at the end of this facsimile edition have been removed in binding this copy.

Ars moriendi ... (1902; (Card 2)

The Colombia "Ars moriendi" corresponds most nearly to the edition classified by Schreier as type iv c belonging to the High German group. The detailed description of each block is given on p. 20-31. There are some variations: on p. 7 (woodcut 3) the assassinated man has no wound as described, and on p. 12 there is no horizontal line under the text. Schreier does not mention the Colombia copy among those of type iv c registered by him. He wrongly places a copy ("Bodleian") of the type iv c in the Lenox library, whereas the New York public library copy is the one registered under iv c as no. 236 of the Weigel collection. He cites a copy of the edition iv c as being in the Royal library of Munich. This edition was printed from the same blocks as iv c, differing only in the two additional woodcuts at the end of this copy. The Colombia copy, on the other hand, is in the Library of Congress shows the same variations as the Huntington facsimile, and also has pages 21 and 23 interchanged.

which Schreier makes no mention. (In referring to the pages by number, the blank recto at beginning is not counted). The sizes given by Schreier vary more or less from those in the Huntington facsimile, which may be accounted for by the writing and shrinking of the paper. The Colombia copy bears on the first page (blank) the number 7079 in manuscript, and on the last page 26 (also blank) two other manuscript notes. On p. 26 of this facsimile is the printed note: "Manuscript notes in this volume are those of Ferdinand Columbus and refer to his catalogue. See 'Reprint' no. 205, my edition in facsimile." This refers to Mr. Huntington's facsimile of the Catalogue of Ferdinand Columbus library, New York, 1905 (no. 18 in the Catalogue of the publications of the Hispanic society of America). The "Ars moriendi" is publication no. 3. In the "Bibliotheca Colombiana. Catalogo de sus libros impresos," t. I, Sevilla, 1908, the Ars moriendi is described as p. 164-165.
